

Essential Listening - April 2022

Roland White

This month we're listening to mandolin player Roland White who sadly left this world in late March this year at the age of 83. I only got to meet him once or twice, but he was always the kind, humble Roland, welcoming new friends. He may be best known for being one of the White Brothers, along with his late brothers Clarence (amazing bluegrass guitarist, and one-time member of the Byrds), and Eric (who played bass in the family band). Roland, along with Clarence, was part of the legendary SoCal band, The Kentucky Colonels in the 1960s (originally called the Country Boys). He played guitar with Bill Monroe's band, and mandolin with Lester Flatt. Later he played for many years with banjo star Alan Munde in Country Gazette, then before forming his own band with his wife Diane Bouska, Roland was a member of the Nashville Bluegrass Band. Truly a stellar musician. Here are some essential tunes you can hear on youtube that span his career.

Alabama Jubilee – Clarence and Roland White recorded in an apartment in Berkeley in 1964

<https://youtu.be/LXSTC6SGh9s>

That's What You Get For Loving Me – Kentucky Colonels, at the Ash Grove, LA in 1965

<https://youtu.be/dDKOEXXtRz4>

I'm Just a Used to Be – Roland "ChiChi" White with Lester Flatt and the Nashville Grass 1973

<https://youtu.be/lksvBslbcsw>

I Wasn't Born to Rock and Roll (entire album, 1976) – with Alan Munde and Kenny Wertz

https://youtu.be/zfq7c_Moc4M

Live and Let Live – Roland on guitar with Bill Monroe and the Bluegrass Boys in the 1980s

<https://youtu.be/DJASn33EpfE>

Midnight – Roland White solo album Trying to Get to You 1994

<https://youtu.be/-OjTA8lkiw8>

Soldier's Joy – Roland White and Dianne Bouska, celebrating Bill Monroe's birthday in 2009

https://youtu.be/n_b7FSjnzNY

She's Gone, Gone, Gone – Live at McCabe's in LA in 2013

with Diane Bouska - Guitar, Herb Pedersen - Banjo, Bill Bryson - Bass, Blaine Sprouse - Fiddle

<https://youtu.be/HOTesvtymIA>

Christmas Time's a Coming - with the Nashville Bluegrass Band 2015

<https://youtu.be/z4DTrI9qGhk>

And finally, a sweet home movie of Roland, Eric, and Clarence White, The Country Boys, at ages 20, 18, and 14 in Griffith Park, LA in 1958. (no live audio, just a later recording added).

<https://youtu.be/6x4lArNXRF0>

RIP, Roland.